A Review of the Past Season's Business of the Southern California Fruit Exchange.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 12th, 1901.
TO EXCHANGE MEMBERS:

GENTLEMEN: In closing another season's business, a word by way of review may be of interest to you:

SHIPMENTS: During the fiscal year ending with the month of August, our shipments of oranges, lemons and grape fruit were 11,027 carloads, aggregating 3,929,146 boxes, being a little less than one-half the total shipments from Southern California. This is a vast increase over any previous year —35 per cent of the crop being the highest point touched before.

SALES: The gross sales of the year aggregate $8,725,000 as against $5,800-000 for the previous year. We doubt if the portion of the crop not under the control of the Exchange brought to the growers as equally good return per carload.

LOSSES: On these large sales we lost not a dollar from bad credits. One item of $351 was arbitrarily withheld by the purchaser in making settlement for a carload of fruit, on the claim that a car previously bought and paid for by him did not keep well, and that he sustained a loss. We have begun suit for collection of the amount. We think that the record of the year's business in this particular is one to be proud of.

DECAV: More difficulties have been experienced during this season than ever before in marketing fruit on account of decay. Much of this was due to the slow and insufficient transportation facilities during a considerable portion of the season, but other causes hard to define may have contributed in a measure to the extraordinary percentage of decay. For the coming year a more thorough system of inspection in transit and at destination will be inaugurated, giving the fullest possible information as to condition, enabling us to handle the fruit in such a manner as to prevent, to some extent, the losses from decay.

EXPENSES: The operating expenses of the year will amount in round figures to 3 per cent of the gross sales, being substantially the same as the year before. This covers auction charges, salaries, telegrams, office and incidental expenses—in fact, every item that is made a charge against the shipments after the fruit is put on board the cars in California, except the freight and refrigeration. Leaving out auction charges, but including the other items of expense in the handling of this fruit, it has cost the Exchange about 1.3-5 per cent. of the gross sales.
In a view of the fact that we have established six new salaried agencies, besides other increase in the service, and also that the fruit sold for a somewhat lower figure, it is gratifying that the percentage of expense did not show an increase.

It is also gratifying to be able to report more inquiry for data and information regarding the Exchange than ever before at this season of the year, and also that many new associations have been, or are now in process of organization, so that everything points to a considerable increase in the percentage of the crop held by the Exchange. Plans are maturing to extend and perfect our marketing service to meet the increasing requirements. A number of new agencies will be established, and such assistance afforded the agents as will enable them to thoroughly canvass all portions of the country.

We beg to call your attention to the fact that the Exchange has handled the increase in the crop for the last several years, as the amount of fruit handled and sold by outside shippers in 1897-98, 1899-00, and the season just past was practically the same—1898-99 being short crop. No better illustration can be given of the benefits of the Exchange system in developing the markets of the country.

As you have already been advised, we have the absolute promise from the presidents of the two initial railroads of an ample equipment to move the fruit, and better time in transit. In fact, we are promised schedule time to be as regular in its movements as passenger service.

We take pleasure in saying that we shall be better prepared than ever to market the fruit, and trust that every association will study to make its pack thoroughly reliable in every way, as good work in the orchard and packing house is a sure way of gaining the confidence of the trade, and obtaining the highest average prices for fruit.

Respectfully submitted,
SO. CAL. FRUIT EXCHANGE,
A. H. NAFTZGER, President.

Wasp McKinley Memorial Number.

The McKinley Memorial Edition issued by the San Francisco Wasp has been received with great favor by the public and several editions have been required to meet the enormous demand for it. Its success is fully deserved as no finer souvenir has ever been issued.
It contains a great number of beautiful engravings descriptive of President McKinley's recent visit to California and the various receptions accorded him in Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, San Francisco, San Jose, etc. The part taken by President McKinley in the launching of the battleship Ohio, his speech to the workmen of San Francisco, the naval procession on San Francisco Bay, and in fact all the principal events of the late chief magistrate's tour are treated admirably in artistic engravings. There are also full page portraits of the President in his late Canton home, of Mrs. McKinley, President Roosevelt and family, and the cabinet officers. The closing scenes of the martyred President's life are reproduced and his last speech reprinted in full. Lifelike pictures of Presidents Lincoln and Garfield are given. The introductory poem, "Resignation," has received unqualified praise for the elevated tone in which it treats the sentiment of the martyred President's last words, "This is His way, God's will be done." The splendid memorial number is for sale by C.
F. Clapp.

Dr. McIvor-Tyndall.

Dr. McIvor-Tyndall the world renowned mind reader, hypnotist and spiritualist will be in Covina at the Opera Hall on Wednesday and Thursday Oct. 9th and 10th. On Wednesday afternoon in company with a number of prominent citizens he will give a thrilling blind-fold drive.
A committee of citizens will secrete some article in any part of the city it may choose, and McIvor-Tyndall will then be blindfolded and placed in a carriage and he will drive post haste pell mell to the spot where the article is hidden and, still blindfolded, will alight from the carriage and find the article and return it to the starting point.

meeting of the board of directors,
Wednesday, Oct. 2.

Present: Hall, Houser, Elliott, Worrel, Kerckhoff, Edwards.

Absent: Chesebro, Adams, Ruddock.
Minutes of the previous meeting read and approved.

Superintendent's and secretary's reports were read and ordered filed.

Bills to the amount of $1834.50 were allowed and ordered paid.

On motion of Hall, seconded by Worrel, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

That a committee of three be appointed to investigate the proposition of bettering the condition of main ditch. First, the probable cost; second, the best means to be used; third, the probable amount that may be saved in water, and general expense of maintaining same.

Poker Still Played.

Covina's anti-gambling ordinance went into effect Saturday morning of last week.

Saturday evening several of Covina's local tinhorn gamblers, Geo. Robinson,
Billy Baldrige, Bill Blackburn, Shug
Miller and Ralph Miller, started a game at the Thomas gambling dive on West Badillo street, to test the validity of the ordinance, but the police authorities allowed them to play undisturbed. Incidentally, Billy Baldrige, who was the moneyed man of the crowd, lost about thirty dollars and before he had an opportunity to retrieve his fortunes the game was summarily broken up by the appearance of his wife who unkindly insisted that he should accompany her home and reserve the balance of his month's earnings for purchasing the necessities of life for his family. Both the players and the citizens are expecting something to drop from police headquarters.

Sunday evening another game was running in this disreputable hole but this was stopped by the appearance of Marshal Fairly who told the boys that they really must go home and be good or he surely would be forced to introduce them to the City Recorder. These tinhorn sports appreciated his kindness of heart so much that a game has been running pretty regular all the week.

FILIPINOS BEST AMERICANS

NINTH INFANTRY MEN ATTACKED AT BREAKFAST

Nearly Half the Survivors Are Wounded and the Stores, Ammunition and Rifles Are Lost—Two Dozen Soldiers Escape

Manila, Sept. 29.—A disastrous fight between United States troops and insurgents occurred yesterday in the island of Samar, near Balangiga. A large body of insurgents attacked Company C, Ninth Infantry, only twenty-four members of the company escaping. All the others are reported to have been killed.

"The company was at breakfast when attacked, an made a determined resistance, but the overwhelming number of the insurgents compelled them to retreat. Of the survivors who arrived at Basey, eleven are wounded.

According to the latest returns the strength of the company was seventy-two. The survivors include Capt. Thomas W. Connell, First Lieut. Edward A. Bumpus and Dr. R. S. Griswold, surgeon.

Capt. Edwin Bookmiller of the Ninth Infantry, reports that Gen. Hughes is assembling a force to attack the insurgents. The insurgents captured all the stores and ammunition of the company and all the rifles except twenty-six.

Capt. Lawrence J. Hearn of the Twenty-first Infantry reports a severe engagement with insurgents near Candalaria, the Americans losing one killed and two wounded. The insurgent loss has not been ascertained. The Americans captured 30,000 pounds of rice and several hundred rounds of ammunition.

Juan Cardona, who until recently was President of Genoa, province of Tarlac, and who was appointed secretary of the Tarlac provincial government, has been arrested on the charge of receiving people of crimes for the purpose of extorting money from them. More than fifty persons assert that they have been robbed by him in this way, some declaring they have even surrendered title deeds of property.

Cardona has been considered one of the most reliable natives holding pro-American views. An examination of his record, however, shows that for several years he was a bandit, and that he served two terms of imprisonment.

The disaster to Company C of the Ninth Infantry occurred, it is believed, while it was engaged in an expedition to clear the country of roving bands of these insurgents. The fact that the Americans were attacked while at breakfast indicates the daring and pluck of the insurgents.

Immediately on receipt of the dispatch Adjt.-Gen. Corbin cabled Gen. Chaffee to send a complete report of the fight and a list of the casualties.

All the officers connected with Company C, which was almost wiped out by the insurgents, are named in Gen. Chaffee's dispatch, there being no second lieutenant now with the company. Capt. Thomas W. Connell, who commanded the company, was appointed to the Military Academy from New York in September, 1889, and First Lieut. Bumpus was appointed to the army from Massachusetts, having served as a private in Company A, First Massachusetts Heavy Artillery.

A SHOCKING CALAMITY.

"Lately befell a railroad laborer," writes Dr. A. Kelleff of Williford, Ark. "His foot was badly crushed, but Bucklen's Arnica Salve quickly cured him. It's simply wonderful for Burns, Boils, Piles and all skin eruptions. It's the world's champion healer. Cure guaranteed. 25c. Sold by C. W. Clapp.

Four Mexican Brigands Killed

Puebla, Mexico.—Brigands obtained entrance to the Hacienda de La Joya, in this state, while the workmen were absent and shot Senor Lasteri, owner of the place. Lasteri fired at the bandits and killed his assailant. Lasteri was then wounded by a machete, but continued firing when his son came to the rescue and shot and killed four of the robbers. The band then fled.

New Laws Needed

Trenton, N. J.—The Republican State convention nominated Franklin Murphy for governor. The platform adopted says:

"The blow which ended the life of our president was cruel, inhuman and lawless. It was aimed, not at the gentle and loving McKinley, but at the republic and the majesty of the law, which guarantees liberty of person and safety of property. Any doctrine which justifies or encourages assassination is utterly hostile to civilization and the welfare of mankind and must be no longer tolerated in this country, and we demand and insist that laws, State and national, be enacted for the effective suppression of such teachings."

WORKING NIGHT AND DAY.

The busiest and mightiest little thing that ever was made is Dr. King's New Life Pills. These pills change weakness into strength, listlessness into energy, brain-fog into mental power. They're wonderful in building up the health. Only 25c per box. Sold by C. W. Clapp.

Western Trip of Roosevelt

Washington. — President Roosevelt probably will make an extended visit to the Pacific coast next year. The President has spoken of his intention to several of his friends, among them H. W. Scott of the Portland Oregonian and S. A. Perkins of the Tacoma Ledger. It is proposed that the President shall visit Washington and Oregon first then going to California and returning through the central and western or southern states. The President has never visited the Pacific slope.

Work on the Oro Fino mine, near Escondido, has been suspended. The Penn Gold Mining Company is shipping two carloads of concentrates from the Mudie regularly every week. They are turning out twelve tons of clean concentrates daily, the value of which is nearly $100 a ton. —Prescott Prospect.

Some forty-five new names have been added to the list of membership in the Southwest Miners' Association during the past few days, all from among the mines. The association is doing much good for the surrounding country in the way of bringing those interested in mining together, as well as calling attention to the mines of the country. Not a day passes that does not bring letters and dispatches from prominent mining men, inquiring regarding mines and prospects in this southwest district.

New Counterfeit Bill

Washington.—The treasury department has issued a warning that a new counterfeit $5 silver certificate is in circulation. It is of the series of 1899, check letter B, plate number 37, and bears the portrait of Indian Chief "One-paw." The counterfeit is printed from photo-etched plates of fair workmanship on good quality paper, bearing lines in imitation of the silk fibre of the genuine.

INSPECT SOLDIERS' HOME

Board of National Managers Will Continue the Canteen

Milwaukee.—The annual tour of inspection of the board of managers of the National Soldiers' homes was completed last Saturday with the inspection of the national home in this city. General McMahon and his fellow members left for their several homes tonight. General McMahon, speaking for the board, said:

"The board has decided to maintain canteens at all the homes for the good and sufficient reason that experience has taught us that it is better for the veteran and for the people in the community in which the homes are located. The canteens are properly conducted at these soldiers' homes and the result is that the veterans do not squander their money in cheap saloons, nor do they drink too much. What is more, I do not believe any pressure will be brought to bear on us in favor of abolition of the canteen."

Compliments Americans

London.—General Gaselee, who was commander of the British forces in China, in an interview regarding the international troops in China, said the Americans were especially well equipped with hospitals and commissariat, and spared no expense in making the troops comfortable.

A DROP IN LIFE

A Former National Congressman Now Cooking for a Living

Topeka, Kan.—From the position of congressman from the Third congressional district of Kansas to a job at cooking and doing chores for his board in Lawton is the drop in life which Edward R. Ridgely has made since the 4th of last March.

Wass Ridgely was succeeded last March by A. M. Jackson, he was unfitted for any profession and could not farm. He lived with his family in Pittsburgh for several months and finally decided to try his fortune in the new country about to be opened for settlement in Oklahoma. Mr. Ridgely had used about all of his little supply of cash when he reached Duncan, a station within eighteen miles of Lawton.

"We reached Lawton in the night," said Ridgely. "I learned that the freighter with whom I rode was bringing a supply of goods for a man who ran a boarding house.

"The proprietor noticed that I was rather handy and asked me if I had any place to sleep. He said if I chose I could stay with him. Next morning he told me I could remain with him if I was willing to cook and do the chores. I make myself as handy as possible.

Wireless Telegraphy in Mid-Ocean

Queenstown.—The Cunard liner Lancia, from New York, September 21, for Liverpool, reports having communicated for two hours with the steamer Campania (of the same line, bound from Liverpool or New York) in mid-ocean by means of the wireless telegraphy. The shortest distance in which communication was executed was three miles, and the longest sixty-five miles. Many messages were exchanged.

Changes at White House

Washington.—Assistant Secretary to the President Barnes, having requested a transfer to a responsible position in one of the executive departments, it is understood that his appointment will shortly be announced.

William Loeb, Jr., who recently has been President Roosevelt's private secretary, has been appointed to the position of assistant secretary.

The Earl and the Highwayman.

One night when the Earl of Stanhope was walking alone in the Kentish lanes a man jumped out of the hedge, leveled a pistol and demanded his purse.

"My good man, I have no money with me," said Lord Stanhope in his remarkably slow tones. The robber laid hands on his watch.

"No," Lord Stanhope went on, "that watch you must not have. It was given to me by one I love. It is worth £100. If you will trust me, I will go back to Chevening and bring a £100 note and place it in the hollow of that tree. I cannot lose my watch."

The man did trust him. The earl did bring the note. Years after Lord Stanhope was at a city dinner, and next to him sat a London alderman of great wealth, a man widely respected. He and the earl talked of many things and found each other mutually entertaining. Next day Lord Stanhope received a letter, out of which dropped a £100 note. "It was your lordship's kind loan of this sum," said the note, "that started me in life and enabled me to have the honor of sitting next to your lordship at dinner." A strange story; but the Stanhopes are a strange race, and things happen to them that never did or could occur to other people.

To Be Cheerful.

The sovereign, voluntary path to cheerfulness, if our spontaneous cheerfulness be lost, is to sit up cheerfully, to look around cheerfully and to act and speak as if cheerfulness were already there. If such conduct doesn't make you soon feel cheerful, nothing else will on that occasion. So, to feel brave, act as if we were brave, use all our will to that end, and a courage fit will very likely replace the fit of fear. Again, in order to feel kindly toward a person to whom we have been inimical, the only way is more or less deliberately to smile, to make sympathetic inquiries and to force ourselves to say genial things. One hearty laugh together will bring enemies into closer communion of heart than hours spent on both sides in inward wrestling with the mental demon of uncharitable feeling.

Cloud Mountains.

The highest of all the clouds are those delicate, white, fibrous, detached masses of frozen vapor; always seem high against the blue sky. The top-most point of the highest of these may be ten miles above the earth. They are called cirrus clouds. Altogether there are ten principal types of clouds. The lowest, known as the stratus, are really horizontal sheets of lifted fog seen on damp days or in very damp localities. These clouds are only a few hundred feet above the earth.

Some of the vast bodies of vapor are higher than the tallest of the Alps. They are undoubtedly snow capped—veritable mountains of ice and snow. It has been discovered that the temperature on one such summit was 75 degrees below zero.

Were it possible for us to ascend in a balloon and penetrate one of these snow capped peaks from base to summit we should travel first through a layer of dry air, vapor and water, a third of freezing vapor, water and ice, and finally through the summit, composed of dry air, vapor and ice, but no water.

Getting Away From Land.

The question has been asked, Is it possible to sail 1,000 miles from land? This can be done at several points. By leaving San Francisco and sailing northward into the north Pacific a spot is reached where there is no land, not even an islet, for 1,000 miles in any direction. So, too, sailing from the southern point of Kamchatka southward ships reach a point equally distant from land of any kind, the nearest to the north being the Aleutian islands and to the south the outlying members of the Sandwich group. In the southern Indian ocean it is possible to sail 1,000 miles out from the southern points of Australia and New Zealand and still be as far from any other land, and the same may be done in a westerly direction from Cape Horn. Indeed, from this point a much longer distance might be reached, for the southern Pacific between the Horn and New Zealand covers a space of 80 degrees of longitude and 40 of latitude of absolutely unbroken sea, making its central point over 1,200 miles from anywhere.

In the Museum.

"The legless man is always putting his foot in it," observed the living skeleton to the snake charmer.

"What has he done now?"

"Last night we were having a friendly little game, and he asked the armless wonder to take a hand."—Baltimore American.

New Tricks.

Wimbleton—Hello, old man! Have you taught your dog any new tricks lately?

Quibbleton—Yes; I've been teaching him to eat out of my hand. He ate a big piece out of it yesterday.—Harvard Lampoon.

Stamped Them.

She stamped her feet in pretty rage. "Ha, ha!" sneered the heavy villain. "You'll have to pay excess postage on them. You had as well stamp them some more."

True, her feet were not the kind that made Cinderella famous, but was it real chivalry in him to say such things?

Women Must Sleep.

Avoid Nervous Prostration.

If you are dangerously sick what is the first duty of your physician? He quiets the nervous system, he deadens the pain, and you sleep well. You ought to know that when you cease to be regular in your courses, grow irritable without cause, and pass sleepless nights, there is serious trouble somewhere, and nervous prostration is sure to follow.

You ought to know that indigestion, exhaustion, womb displacements, fainting, dizziness, headache, and backache send the nerves wild with fright, and you cannot sleep.

Mrs. Hartley, of 221 W. Congress St., Chicago, Ill., whose portrait we publish, suffered all these agonies, and was entirely cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; her case should be a warning to others, and her cure carry conviction to the minds of every suffering woman of the unfailing efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The Passion.

We say of a man who has no will mystery. He is ruled by his passions. They govern him, not he them. Centuries ago an Arab wrote, "Passion is a tyrant which slays those whom it governs." It is like fire, which once thoroughly kindled can scarcely be quenched, or like the torrent, which when it is swollen can no longer be restrained by its banks. (C) Then not a prisoner who has been put in fetters by his enemy, but rather him whose own passions overpower him to destruction.

Hardly.

George Moore, the novelist, once had a play accepted at the Odeon in Paris. The news of his good fortune came to him in London, and he at once repaired to the French capital and in early morning presented himself at the manager's office. The manager was engaged on the stage rehearsing an adaptation of "Othello," and the doorkeeper failed to recognize the gifted author of "Esther Waters" and "The Celibates" and simply asked him his business with the manager.

"Tell him," said Mr. Moore, in his best Erse-French, "I am an English author whose play he has accepted."

The doorkeeper went to the manager and said, "There is an English gentleman at the door who says that you are to produce his play and wants to see you."

"Bring," said the manager, "Show him in. Mr. Shakespeare without doubt."

"I say, I've got a scheme," said the inventive genius, "that will make me independently rich if I succeed in perfecting it."

"What is it?" asked his friend.

"It has been estimated," continued the i. g., "that one ordinary female house fly will lay 200,000 eggs in a season."

"Yes," answered the friend, "but what's the scheme?"

"I propose," replied the genius, "to graft the house fly on the human race."

Completely Consented.

In his volume of reminiscences, "The Eccentricities of Genius," Major Pond tells the following story of Clara Louise Kellogg:

"On our arrival at St. Paul, while waiting in the hotel parlors to be assigned to our rooms, William, our piano tuner, came to me, with tears running down his face. He was in deep distress. He must leave us at once and go back to New York. His brother had died. Miss Kellogg, seeing the poor fellow, immediately came to his relief. 'What is it, William?' she asked. 'My brother is dead. I must go home.' 'When did he die?' asked Miss Kellogg. 'I did not get the letter until just now. It has been forwarded from Omaha. He has been buried two weeks.'

"Miss Kellogg tried to persuade him that he could be of no assistance in hurrying home now, that in a short time we would all be back, and he would be better off to remain with the company. Besides, we could not spare him, as there was no one to take his place. He was persistent, being a superstitious young German. Miss Kellogg said at last, 'Now, William, come with me.' She walked out with him to a dry goods store, bought a piece of black crape and tied it on his arm in a very elaborate bow. She made him get a silk hat and have it trimmed with crape. In half an hour William was back among us, decorated in full mourning and completely consoled. The entire company were sympathizing with him. He was almost happy, and the rest of us were satisfied and pleased."

Some Old Georgia Superstitions.

Here is a contribution in the shape of folklore gossip as heard among the Georgia crackers. It is a survival of the old English superstitions:

When it is ebb tide, the slits in a cat's eyes are horizontal; when it is flood tide, they are vertical. Kill a frog, and it will rain hard for three days. If a cock walks in at the door, turns around and crows, he announces a death in the family. Potatoes will not thrive unless they are planted in the dark of the moon, and a child born at the full of the moon will be a boy.

If you open an umbrella in a house, the only person present will die, and the same thing will happen if you hang a coat or hat on a doorknob or a doorbell. It is not wise to set a hen during a certain part of August, because the life of the world is at its lowest then. If two persons going hand in hand meet an obstacle which divides them, the one on the left will go to hell and the one on the right to heaven.

If you drop a pair of scissors and one point sticks in the floor, a visitor will come from the direction toward which the other leg is extended. A child that has never seen its father can cure whooping cough by blowing down the patient's throat. To get rid of freckles count them and put an equal number of pebbles into a paper. Whoever steps on the paper will get the freckles.

Scotch Thrift.

The city council of Auckland placed a price on the head of every rat in the city, and a grocer's boy became a perfect Nimrod and slew about 30. At the risk of contracting the plague he carried his dead along, obtained the scalp money and came back jubilant to his master and told him how much he had made. The master cast upon him an eye of Aberdeen gray, and then remarked quietly, "Weel, weel, ye'll just pay the money to our cashier, for ye ken the rats is mine, not yours."—Sydney Bulletin.

Not Alike.

The Professor—Don't use that phrase, my dear. It is grossly unscientific.

His Wife—What phrase? "As much alike as two peas?"

The Professor—Yes. Examined under the microscope, two peas will present startling differences.—Puck the front, and is now known in every city, town and hamlet in the country. Its staunchest friends are those who have known it longest and have witnessed its wonderful curative powers in their own families or among their friends and acquaintances. Grateful patients in all parts of the country tell of their restoration to health and happiness, and the testimony of these is the highest evidence of the medicine's worth. S. S. S. is more popular today than ever in its history—no other remedy stands so high, has ever given such perfect satisfaction or is so reliable in the cure of Cancer, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Contagious Blood Poison, Scrofula, Eczema, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum, Acne, or any disease that originates in the blood. Being strictly a vegetable preparation, you will find it agrees with you much better than a drug store concoction or any of the widely advertised potash and mercury remedies, which affect the bones, muscles and stomach, causing Rheumatism or Dyspepsia. If you have never tried S. S. S., you will be surprised at the immediate good effects, which it produces in the circulation than the appetite increases; you grow stronger, and gradually but surely it drives out the poisons and restores the blood to a healthy condition. If there is a sore or ulcer on the body, it begins to heal around the edges, the discharge finally ceases and the place gets well; muscular and bone pains vanish, and the skin is relieved of all itching, irritating eruptions. Nervous, run down and anemic people will find S. S. S. just the medicine they need, for blood poverty and ill nourished nerves are responsible for their condition. For old people and children S. S. S. has no equal; being free from all minerals, it does not nauseate or have any injurious effect whatever, and keeps the blood in good condition, thus fortifying against disease. Experience teaches what is good and what is not good; this applies particularly to medicine, and S. S. S., a remedy that has retained the confidence of the people for nearly 50 years, must have merit—it cures, is the secret of its success. When you call for S. S. S. don't be persuaded to accept something else—there is no substitute for S. S. S. It is the only guaranteed purely vegetable blood purifier, and the safest and best for all blood and skin troubles. Do not let them force an inferior mineral remedy on you because there is a larger profit in it. If you have any blood or skin disease, don't hesitate to write us about it; our physicians will carefully consider your case and advise you without charge. Book on Blood and Skin Diseases free.

An Old Friend

When Herrings Were Plenty.

In former days herrings were so abundant in Newfoundland waters that the most wanton slaughter of them was permitted without any restriction whatever. Selches were allowed to retain 1,000 or 2,000 barrels of the fish until they perished, and then the net was freed, and the whole contents fell to the bottom to pollute the ocean for miles around. When a poaching smack was captured, the herrings it had on board were all thrown into the sea, and frequently boats when chased resorted to the same means to get rid of incriminating evidence. The fish then fetched only 50 cents a barrel of 500 herrings, or ten for a cent.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ANOTHER WONDER OF SCIENCE.

Biology has Proved that Dandruff is Caused by a Germ.

Science is doing wonders these days in medicine as well as in mechanics. Since Adam delved, the human race has been troubled with dandruff, for which no hair preparation has heretofore proved a successful cure until Newbro's Herpicide was put on the market. It is a scientific preparation that kills the germ that makes dandruff or scurf by digging into the scalp to get at the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality, causing itching scalp, falling hair, and finally baldness. Without dandruff hair must grow luxuriantly. Herpicide at all druggists. It is the only destroyer of dandruff.

CANDY CATHARTIC	Cascarets	taste good. Eat them like candy. They remove any bad taste in the mouth, leaving the breath sweet and perfumed. It is a pleasure to take them, and they are liked especially by children.
SWEETEN THE STOMACH	Cascarets	sweeten the stomach by cleansing the mouth, throat and food channel. That means, they stop undigested food from souring in the stomach, prevent gas forming in the bowels, and kill disease germs of any kind that breed and feed in the entire system.
PURELY VEGETABLE	Cascarets	are purely vegetable and contain no mercurial or other mineral poison. They consist of the latest discoveries in medicine, and form a combination of remedies unequalled to make the blood pure and rich and make clean skin and beautiful complexion.
LIVER TONIC	Cascarets	tone the stomach and bowels and stir up the lazy liver. They do not merely soften the stools and cause their discharge, but strengthen the bowels and put them into lively, healthy condition, making their action natural.
MILD BUT SURE	Cascarets	never grip nor gripe. They act quietly, positively and never cause any kind of uncomfortable feeling. Taken regularly they make the liver act regularly and naturally as it should. They keep the rewerage of the body properly moving and keep the system clean. Increase the flow of milk in nursing mothers. If the mother eats a tablet, it makes her milk mildly purgative and has a mild but certain effect on the baby. In this way they are the only safe laxative for the nursing infant.
BOON FOR MOTHERS	Cascarets	taken patiently, persistently, will cure any form of constipation, no matter how old or how often other remedies have failed. They are absolutely guaranteed to cure and if you purchase money will be cheerfully refunded.
CURE CONSTIPATION	Cascarets	cost 10c, 25c, 50c a box. Samples sent free for the asking. We publish no testimonials but sell Cascarets on their merit and absolute guarantee to cure. Buy and try a box to-day, or write us for free sample and booklet.
NEVER SOLD IN BULK	Cascarets	Address: STERLING REMEDY CO., CHICAGO or NEW YORK.

$100 REWARD will be paid to any reader of this paper who will report to us any attempt of substitution, or sale of "something just as good" when Cascarets are called for, and furnish evidence upon which we can convict. All correspondence confidential.

COVINA, Oct. 5.

Have you paid your dog tax?

Have you met the license collector?

Three cheers for the victorious Columbia and her gallant crew.

In Covina society circles yelling socials are taking the place of crokinole parties. They prove a howling success.

If any man ever lifts the cup we hope it will be Sir Thomas whose genial personality and true sportsmanship has made him a favorite with the American people.

It is early yet to talk Republican county politics, but we notice by the Pomona Times that that city already has two candidates in the field, Dr. Henderson, for Coroner, and Steve Alden for Recorder. The writer has known the former gentleman for a number of years and can with a clear conscience heartily indorse his candidacy. He is a good physician, the essence of honor, and an untiring party worker.

About three months ago we secured a bottle of Haskell's machine oil for our presses. It has proved so satisfactory that in future we shall use no other. Since using it the presses run at least one-third lighter than ever before. This testimonial was neither asked or paid for, but is given because we appreciate the merits of the article and have no hesitancy in recommending it to all users of machinery.

COVINA in the past two years has become the business center for the valley. This result has been obtained by its geographical location and the enterprise of its merchants. Our merchants should not, however, be content with what has already been accomplished along this line, for by a little effort on their part they can secure a large percentage of the trade which is now going to Pomona and Los Angeles from Irwindale, Vineland, Charter Oak, San Dimas, Glendora and other points. All we need is the co-operation of our merchants to bring outside trade to Covina. There are many ways by which this can be accomplished. It has been suggested that our merchants club together and run a bus to these outlying localities one day in the week, call for the ranchers and their wives, drive them to Covina and home again after making their purchases.

Let our merchants offer some inducements for ranchers from a distance to come to Covina on that day. Let our dry goods merchants make a cut on dress goods or other lines; the shoe man on shoes; the hardware merchant could afford to sell a stove or a cultivator at cost and the grocery man might offer an extra pound of sugar for a dollar and throw in a pound of tea with a five dollar order.

And on this day it would not be amiss for some of the larger stores to serve light refreshments, a cup of coffee and sandwiches to those coming from a distance.

Co-operation along this line is bound to be fruitful of results. Show the ranchers of these outlying settlements that you want their trade and are willing to offer inducements to secure it and the results will surprise your expectations.

In addition to this keep your patrons informed through the medium of printer's ink of the bargains that can be secured in Covina. Make your ads bright and catchy, give your readers facts and figures and then make it your business to more than live up to your announcements. It is by such means that fortunes are made in trade and comparatively small communities rapidly become flourishing cities.

One of England's great jurists has expressed himself as follows upon the results which should follow McKinley's assassination, and every true American citizen who desires to see criminals receive their just deserts will heartily endorse him:

"This ought to give America the chance to shake off the incubus of too much legalism, and by legalism I mean straining the law to defeat its own purpose.

"In criminal trials it seems to be the main object of the American courts to discover a jury who will liberate the prisoner, not carry out the law.

"Absurd questions are asked whether the veniremen of jurymen have read about the case; whether such reading has led to the formation of opinion on the merits of the case so as to prejudice of the verdict; whether they are acquainted with the prisoner or victim.

"This absurd straining for loopholes which the courts appear to encourage, is in my opinion the first step toward anarchy."

The speedy trial and conviction of Czolgosz is the first step in the right direction.

NOTICE OF SALE OF BILL POSTING FRANCHISE.

Notice is hereby given that an application for a bill posting franchise in the City of Covina, has been made to the board of trustees of said city and that it is proposed to offer for sale and grant such a franchise upon the terms and conditions herein contained.

Said franchise is described as follows: a right, privilege and franchise to provide, erect and maintain in said city, public bill boards, posting boards and surface along and adjacent to the public streets and at appropriate places in said city, to use the same for posting and billing purposes and to bill the city and distribute dodgers, hand bills and circulars therein. Such privilege shall be used so as not to interfere with any public use of streets nor constitute a public nuisance nor violate any ordinance of said city.

The grantee of such franchise shall, within 5 days after the same may be awarded, file a bond in the sum of $50 with two sufficient sureties conditioned as required by law.

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids, in writing, will be received for the said franchise up to 7:30 o'clock p. m. of the 12th day of November, 1901; that the bids received will be opened at that time; that all bids must be for the payment of a stated sum in gold coin of the United States; and that said franchise will be granted to the person, firm or corporation who shall make the highest cash bid therefor, provided, only, that at the time of opening said bids, any responsible firm or corporation, present or represented, may bid for said franchise a sum not less than ten per cent above the highest sealed bid therefor, and said bid so made may be raised ten percent by any responsible bidder present, and said franchise will finally be struck off, sold and granted by said board of trustees to the highest bidder therefor in gold coin of the United States, and said successful bidder will be required to deposit with said board of trustees or such person as it may direct, the full amount of his or its bid, within twenty-four hours, thereafter, and in case he or it shall fail to do so then the said franchise shall be granted to the next highest bidder, therefor, and that the board of trustees reserves the right to reject any or all bids. Provided, that no bid, whether sealed or otherwise, shall be received or considered unless the same be in writing, and subscribed by a responsible bidder, or by his or its duly authorized agent.

By order of the board of trustees of the City of Covina. E. B. Carrier, City Clerk.

Early in the morning the friends began to arrive with well filled baskets as well as a bundle of carpet rags, and all enjoyed a good old fashion sewing bee. At the noon hour they adjourned to the dining room where the baskets were emptied and a bountiful repast was enjoyed by all. After dinner all gathered on the front porch and had their pictures taken, which will be given as a souvenir. Mrs. Bartly received many beautiful and useful presents. Late in the afternoon they departed wishing Mrs. Bartly many happy returns of the day. Those present were: Mrs. L. Melbert, Mrs. E. M. Worrell, Mrs. L. D. Graham, Mrs. G. C. Ostrander, E. V. Bashor, Mrs. J. H. Matthews, Mrs. M. K. Harris, Mrs. O. C. Willoughby, Mrs. W. H. Potter, Mrs. M. E. Smeltzer, Mrs. A. E. Brooks, Kittie Vincent, Mrs. G. W. In scaling a precipice a man is up against a big bluff.

It's a poor physician that's unable to relieve a patient of a fee.

A crust and a kind word are better than a feast and indigestion.

Equality is thus defined by a French writer: "Equality is a desire to be equal to your superiors and superior to your equals."

There are exceptions to all rules. No doubt it is true, as the women declare, that men are all alike—excepting your wife's first husband.

Two Brooklyn telephone girls have just been married to young men who were charmed by their voices over the wire. Telephone girls everywhere reading this will begin work with new courage.

Prof Roberts, of Cornell, is credited with saying that it is generally accepted now by the scientific world that frog spawn can be carried in atmosphere and hatched out in the clouds, and that a shower of frogs will result. Will the scientific world endorse this extraordinary statement?

The French tax on street signs "varies with the size of the offense." Last year it added over $700,000 to the public treasury. In the United States vast street signs can shut out the air and the views and overwhelm everything in sight without paying a cent in taxation. The huge nuisance is managed better in France.

German folk-lore tells of a peacock which thrust the glory of his plumage upon all other poultry till a young hen cackled, "Just look at his feet!" The peacock had forgotten his ill-forgotten extremities. "Just look at his feet!" is not an uncommon expression to-day. The growing summer fashion of dressing children's feet with sandals only has much to commend it. It will create a healthy sentiment and a good "understanding" that will refuse to wait for the millennium to know why shoes are invariably made too tight.

Coal to carry an ocean liner across in five and a half days costs $9,000. The new turbine engine, passing the steam around the fins spirally, will give a speed of four days, it is claimed, with oil fuel costing $4,000 and leaving much more room in the hull for freight, leaving for passengers the best part of the ship now occupied by the coal-using machinery. A trans-Atlantic company has given an order for such a ship to be in service next year. That all the promises will be fulfilled may be doubted, but there is no doubt that an era of improved ship construction has arrived.

One of the most ingenious and eminent of the country's educators has ventured a new definition of "gentleman." He opines that the distinctive mark of a gentleman probably consists in "the readiness to accept trusts, even when they are personally disadvantageous—the readiness to subordinate a man's own convenience and desires to a social code." A distinguished female student of sociology and the humanities generally has laid down the rule that the infallible mark of a gentleman consists in good form, and that, for example, a person who took the wrong fork to his oysters could not possibly be a gentleman. And another educator, as eminent as the first, is alleged to have expressed his doubt as to whether any one who was not familiar with classical literature at first hand could by any means become a gentleman. This confusion among the authorities is extremely discouraging to young men. They have heard that it is desirable to be gentlemen. Yet, with such conflicting definitions as these, how can they tell whether they are making for the delectable state? They may learn a whole book of etiquette by heart, only to be ruled out at last because they cannot construe a line of Homer. Or they may diligently read the classics and cultivate the widest readiness to accept trusts and then meet their Waterloo through wearing the wrong kind of necktie. The matter is so confusing that young men, on the whole, may give it up in despair and try to content themselves with being merely good and useful persons.

When the papers are crowded with reports of accidents, the report of the Interstate Commerce Commission supplies assurance to those who are rather timorous about trusting themselves to passenger trains. The report shows that for the year ending June 30, 1900, the railroads carried 576,862,230 passengers, an increase over the previous year of 53,988,722; and that the passenger mileage was 16,020,007,217, an increase of 1,417,679,184, figures that are almost incredible. The total number of casualties in account of accidents was 78,150, of which 7,965 were fatalities. And of this number 2,550 were employees and 4,344 were trespassers. But the number of passengers killed was only 249, or one for 2,310,043 carried, and only one passenger was injured for every 139,740 carried, a ratio that should calm the fears of any person who reads the reports of accidents in the papers. These figures show a substantial reduction of casualties from the previous year, and this is due to improvements not alone in rolling stock, but in the trackage itself and in safety appliances adopted. The cars are now equipped with safety couplers and automatic air brakes, the rails are heavier and held by devices which minimize danger in this direction, and the tracks on every first-class railroad are governed by the block system. The double track is now being fast superseded by the four track system, which entirely separates passenger trains from freight, and at stations where many of the worst accidents have taken place, gates bar the entrance to trains until they have taken aboard their passengers and departed. There is almost no end to the improvements being made and the results are such as to encourage further effort for the safety of passengers and employees.

Many years ago Sir Arthur Phelps maintained that the amelioration of the race would not come through political reforms nor the labor of social agitators, but through the discoveries of science and the work of inventors. Social and economic reforms are slow. It takes a long time to get a majority. Inventions, on the other hand, are almost instantly available and can be universally applied. Remarkable changes in the condition of the people and in the cost of living will be wrought if Mr. Edison's discovery of a cheap method of producing a superior quality of Portland cement proves to be practicable. His prediction is that the cement can be sold profitably at $5 a ton. The future house will not be built but poured. The contractor will have a number of moulds of various sizes and styles of architecture. The excavation for the foundation will be made, the mould set over the site and the cement poured in. In a short time the cement will be hard as stone, and there you are with a cottage or a palace poured to order. For a few hundred dollars a structure may be erected, which, under present methods of construction, would cost $10,000. Moreover, Mr. Edison says, the work may be done by unskilled labor. Both the social and political reformer must welcome every factor that reduces the price of living and lends toward the betterment of the race in material things. Indeed there are those who believe that moral betterment comes only with material well-being and a political school is founded upon this precept. Preachments at both ends of this article aside, inquiry at the lumber yards, brick kilns and hardware stores of the city discloses no present apprehension respecting Mr. Edison's discovery.

Few of the social changes wrought by the requirements of the times are greater than is the change in the tests applied to the ministers of city churches. Not many years ago the "candidate" for a city pastorate was judged, as was the country parson, chiefly by the soundness of his doctrine, by his spirituality and by his eloquence. It is hardly too much to say that all these qualifications are now more or less subordinate to new tests. Not one of them is obsolete, or can be neglected. No minister who sows the seeds of doubt instead of those of faith, no one whose soul is not in his work, no one who lacks the art of attracting men and women by the grace or the power of his oratory, can be an acceptable pastor. But the one indispensable requirement now is that he have large executive ability. He must know how to organize his people, and to keep their organizations well in hand, so that they shall not conflict with each other or with him. To glance at the "calendar" of a city church is to discover an organization on organization, wheels within wheels, societies, guilds, classes and associations for all sorts of purposes, religious and philanthropic. How to guide the choice of A as chairman of this, and B as secretary of that, and C as the head of the other, and to see to it that all the letters of the alphabet find the place where they can do the most with the least friction—this taxes the brains and patience of the twentieth century minister. In the case of "institutional churches" the problem is still more complex. There mission leagues, employment bureaus, lecture courses, cooking schools, evening classes in French or bookkeeping, reading rooms, loan associations, recreation rooms and other devices for promoting the welfare of the people form a part of the church machinery; and the pastor is the chief executive, with a staff of assistants. One such church in New York requires a pamphlet of three hundred pages merely to catalogue and describe these activities. If these multiplied organizations detract somewhat from the tranquillity of a spiritual life, at least they bring the church into contact with humanity and its needs at many points, and so enlarge its possibilities of usefulness.

THE RICHEST AMERICAN CITIES.

Baltimore is Fourth, Following New York, Boston and San Francisco.

There is no way in which the diffusions of wealth among the inhabitants of American cities may be gauged with absolute precision, but the amount of personal property held in each furnishes one test, for it includes generally bonds, cash, money, furniture, jewelry, equipages, stocks and money invested in business.

It is a fact well known, of course, that the general taxation of all such personal property is impossible, that a considerable portion of it escapes taxation and a considerable portion of it, too, is exempted by law, but the relation which personal property of one big city bears to that of another furnishes a fair guide to the wealth of each.

By this standard New York ranks first among American cities, but not very far in advance of the city of Boston, one of the oldest and most opulent of American municipalities, and one in which personal property bears the relation of one to four of real estate value; in New York it is only one to six.

Following New York and Boston, which are at the head of the list of the richest American cities, comes San Francisco, with $120,000,000 of taxed personal property, a condition of affluence due to the vast property which has come from the Pacific coast mines, the chief owners of which, or their descendants, have an actual or, at least, a legal residence in the Golden Gate city.

Following San Francisco is Baltimore, one of the most substantial municipalities of the United States, with a larger amount of personal property taxed than San Francisco, but with a much larger population as well.

Following Baltimore comes Chicago and then Detroit, St. Louis, Providence, one of the wealthiest of American cities; New Orleans and Indianapolis.—New York Sun.

HIS GUESTS ALL "SKUN."

Johnnie Invited the "Gang" to His Birthday Party.

A 19-year-old boy, whom it will not harm to call Johnnie Joy, living in Herkimer street, Brooklyn, on his last birthday had a party. It was a party that stands out fresh and sharp in the memories of the entire family. Johnnie's sister had had birthday parties, where all the girls and boys governed themselves strictly according to the rules of decorum. Johnnie's party was made up entirely of boys living in the immediate neighborhood.

"I just want the 'gang' I play with," said he to his mother, according to the New York Tribune, and the "gang" it was that awkwardly surrounded the table in the basement dining room and looked with gleaming eyes on the bountiful supply of goodies. Noticing their restraint, Johnnie's mother tactfully withdrew, after noting that there was plenty for every one to eat. She had scarcely reached the floor above before her nerves were thrilled by a terrible commotion below. There was a sound of breaking crockery and glassware, and the jingle of spoons and knives striking a hard substance. There were excited exclamations and a scurrying of feet outside the basement door. Then suddenly all became silent as the grave. Wonderingly, the mother of Johnnie returned to the dining room, where three minutes before were 12 hungry little boys. The tablecloth and dishes were on the floor in a heap. Johnnie's head was buried in his arms, and the scalding tears were trickling down his nose.

"Why, Johnnie, dear, where are your friends?" asked the mother.

"They—they—swiped all—all they wuz on—on—the table an'—an' skun!" said Johnnie, breaking forth into a fresh torrent of tears.

Farming Told on Him.

It was not an American farmer of whom an English paper tells a story, although the incident might possibly be matched on this side of the water. The agriculturist in question had been to a rent dinner to enjoy himself among men of his own walk in life, while his hard-working wife stayed at home and saw to it that the farm suffered no loss in his absence.

"I'm about tired out," was the man's greeting upon his return. "Is 't' cows in 't' barn?"

"Yes, long since," replied his spouse, barely stopping a moment from her duties to glance at him as she spoke.

"Is 't' horses unharnessed and fed?" he inquired.

"Yes."

"'T' cows locked up?"

"Yes."

"Wood chopped for mornin'?"

"Yes."

"Them ducks plucked and dressed for market?"

"Yes."

"Wagon wheel mended and ready to start in 't' mornin'?"

"Yes."

"Oh, then," concluded the good man with a sigh of relief, "let me have my supper and turn in. Farmin' is beginnin' to tell on me."

"Some people," said Uncle Eben, "don't seem to take no special interest in tellin' de truth 'cep' when it's sumpin' disagreeable."—Washington Post.

Pat's Bazaar.

Adelina Patti, the great singer, on one of her tours of Europe was due at Bucharest on a certain date. Owing to inclement weather, however, madame declined to budge from Vienna, and the poor manager went nearly distracted. As storming had not the slightest effect on her serene highness the manager set his wits to work. Soon afterward a telegram arrived from Bucharest, stating that a brilliant deputation of Roumanian nobles, with a torchlight procession and military band, was to receive the diva. The message was handed to Mme. Patti, who was enchanted, and at once made ready to start. On arrival, the band played and the torches flared, and madame was put in the best of spirits by being escorted to her hotel by the Roumanian nobles. It is not known what she would have said had she been told that the "nobles" were hired from the streets and dressed up for the occasion by a representative of the manager.

WASHDAY WISDOM.

A very hot iron should never be used for flannels or woollens.

Calicoes, ginghams and chintzes should be ironed on the wrong side.

Clotheslines are made much more durable by boiling for ten minutes before they are used.

Table linen should be ironed when quite damp and ironed with a very hot and very heavy iron.

Irons should not be allowed to become red-hot, as they will never retain the heat properly afterward.

Embroideries should be ironed on a thin, smooth surface over thick flannel and only on the wrong side.

Linen may be made beautifully white by the use of a little refined borax in the water instead of using a washing fluid.

Wash fabrics that are inclined to fade should be soaked and rinsed in very salt water, to set the color, before washing in the suds.

Silken fabrics, especially white silk handkerchiefs, should not be dampened, but ironed with a moderately warm iron when taken from the line.

Eruptions

Dry, moist, scaly tetter, all forms of eczema or salt rheum, pimples and other cutaneous eruptions proceed from humors, either inherited, or acquired through defective digestion and assimilation.

To treat these eruptions with drying medicines is dangerous.

The thing to do is to help the system discharge the humors, and strengthen it against their return.

A CONDENSED REPORT OF THE WEEK'S HAPPENINGS

Robbers Captured by a Posse of Citizens—Unknown Soldier Suicides—Olive Pickling Plant—Flour Mill Burned

Carl Jens, a Redding youth, invested $17.50 in Texas oil and has received $5250 in return. A big gusher was struck by the company in which he put his money.

While mixing lime to mark out the diamond on a ball field at Martinez, Stephen Merisch, one of the players through an accident, will probably lose his eyesight. The lime exploded in slaking and flew into his eyes.

A San Jose company is to operate a line of automobiles between that city and suburban towns. Ten passenger busses, one large towing machine, six dos-ados and six rural delivery wagons will be in operation shortly.

The Orange County Farmers' Insurance Company was organized over three years ago. Up to June 30th of this year there have been written in all 675 policies. The amount of insurance in force at that date was $189,500.

The Olive Growers' Association at San Fernando is rushing work on its new buildings, which are nearing completion and which will be ready for the commencement of picking and oil pressing in about ten days. This building is the largest one of its kind in California, being 129 by 50 feet.

C. E. Todins, a San Jose barber, was forcibly prevented from leaving town on the train by his wife, who asserted that he had disposed of all the household furniture and was intending to desert her. The police came to her assistance by locking Todins up on a charge of disturbing the peace. In spite of his indignant assertions of his right to leave his wife if he chose.

J. M. Williams, a pioneer resident of Grass Valley, Cal., is at the point of death, and the doctors declare this condition has been brought on by two rubberlike patent ear drums. Williams purchased the articles, believing they would help his failing hearing. He had missed them and it now appears they dropped into the inner ear.

On the down trip of the river steamer, T. C. Walker, an unknown man in the uniform of a private soldier, jumped overboard Saturday. The boat was near Antioch when the man plunged into the river. The steamer Columbia, which was near at hand, threw him a line, but he refused to accept aid and soon sank. His identity has not yet been established.

The War Department is investigating stories which have reached Washington to the effect that there is danger of much suffering at Cape Nome. The department has issued instructions that the transport Egbert be put in readiness for immediate service, but sailing orders are withheld until the officials can satisfy themselves that the government is not being imposed on in the matter.

Tom Griffith, claiming to be a San Francisco boiler-maker on strike, was arrested at San Jose on a charge of assault to murder Capt. Thomas Derby, superintendent of the New Almaden Quicksilver Mining Company. Griffith was given employment by Derby, but proved unsatisfactory, and on Saturday was discharged, when he struck Capt. Derby in the face and afterwards is alleged to have assaulted him with an iron bar.

Fire destroyed the mill building of the Sperry Flour Company at Marysville last Saturday. Insurance of $25,000 on the building and $10,000 on manufactured products within same, will about cover the loss. Warehouses adjacent to the mill building, containing wheat and flour to the value of $125,000, were unharmed. The mill had a capacity of 500 barrels. It will be rebuilt immediately, probably on a smaller scale.

Shortly after midnight last Saturday, Dr. Hugh Beattie of Oak Grove, eight miles south of Sacramento, entered his office and was faced by three burglars, who at once drew their revolvers and fired several shots at him. Dr. Beattie retreated and the burglars left the office, and, with four companions, who were outside, gave leg bail. Dr. Beattie aroused the neighborhood, a posse was quickly formed, and the gang was surrounded and captured within the hour. They gave the names of Tom Maguire, James Cooley, James Murphy, James Monroe, Frank Smith, John B. Lee and Charles Williams. On the men were found three revolvers, two dozen pocket knives, three razors and two dozen cheap watch chains. The supposition is that they recently robbed a store near Redding or Red Bluff.

The President May Come

President Roosevelt will, it is reported, make a visit to the Pacific coast next year. He has never visited this part of the country. Mr. Roosevelt, although a northerner by birth, is of the west western by nature and in his sympathies, and there is no man who could appreciate more the beauties, the resources and the advantages of the Pacific coast. And the President must rest assured that nowhere would he be more cordially welcomed than here.

The announced intention of the President to cross the continent on a visit to his constituency, as did Mr. McKinley before him, is another substantial indication that this section is at last receiving the recognition to which it is entitled.—Los Angeles Herald.

Large Nugget Found

Port Townsend, Wash.—The steamship Senator has arrived from Nome bringing nearly 500 passengers and over half a million in treasure.

The Senator sailed from Nome September 16. Out of a large number of passengers on the Senator not one of them brought out as much money as they took in. All speak in high terms of the country as a mining section, but say that the laws are such that it will be years before the country will open up. They say that not one new claim has been opened in the vicinity of Nome this season for the reason that when prospectors find pay diggings some one comes along and claims it by right of prior location, and it is then tied up in court.

The largest nugget ever found in the north was taken out of Anvil creek, September 14. It weighs ninety-seven ounces and is valued at $1552.

Orange Trees Under Tents

Phoenix, Ariz.—A new scheme has been launched for increasing the acreage of oranges in the Salt River Valley belt, which already is becoming noted for the production of early and highly-flavored and colored citrus fruit. Growing oranges under tents is the experiment which is now being tried by several owners of orchards in Arizona, with excellent promise of important results.

Although in this section of Arizona there are grown Washington navel oranges that are the earliest and among the finest in the market of this country, bringing on the eastern market 20 per cent. more in price than the product of any other region in the United States, the Arizona Orange Growers' Association, composed of all the orange growers of Central Arizona, is laboring to produce a more superior and earlier fruit. To that end E. W. Young, president of the association, and formerly a wealthy resident of Chicago, is building over each of the trees on his large orange grove a shelter tent of canvas.

The equipments of tents, with the necessary high frames, and the canvas, will cost about $500 for each acre, but there is reason to believe that the protection against the extreme heat of the mid-day summer sun, and against the probabilities of frost, will in one season compensate the grower for the outlay.

HUSBAND COMMITS MURDER

Fatal Midnight Shooting Affray in Kansas City

Kansas City.—Charles Hudspeth of Mason City, Ill., at midnight Sunday shot Charles Curry of Lexington, Mo., being jealous over the attentions paid Mrs. Hudspeth. Curry died soon after.

The shooting took place in the Hudspeth rooms in Wyandotte street, where Curry had been enticed by a letter written by Mrs. Hudspeth at her husband's command. When the police arrived Curry was unconscious. Mrs. Hudspeth, who was crying, greeted the officers with, "My husband shot a man who was not armed." Hudspeth submitted to arrest calmly.

Hudspeth is 30 years of age and says he and his wife have been married five years and that they have a child. He had just returned from a trip to Oklahoma and said he had come to look for his wife.

Hays Treated Generously

San Francisco, Sept. 28.—In connection with the retirement of President C. M. Hays of the Southern Pacific, the Chronicle says:

"Hays, it is learned, was treated very generously by Harriman in his financial settlement. As is well known, he accepted the presidency of the Southern Pacific from the Speyers at a salary of $55,000 a year, with a contract for five years. Harriman, it is stated, decided to allow Hays his full salary up to the end of the present year, and half of his salary for the remaining four years covered by his contract."

HARRIMAN IS PRESIDENT

Great Railway King to Handle Affairs of Big System From New York

New York, Sept. 28.—It was officially announced here that E. H. Harriman will be the next president of the Southern Pacific company. He will reside in New York, but will select an able railroad man to go to San Francisco and fill the position of assistant to the president.

On Wall street the news was received with surprise and eagerly discussed. It is generally conceded that Harriman will step in as president of the Southern Pacific solely upon motives of economy. With the appointment of J. C. Stubbs as traffic director of the Harriman system of roads, most of the responsibility is gone from the office of president of the Southern Pacific company. It is definitely known in New York that Charles M. Hays handed in his resignation as president the moment J. C. Stubbs was appointed traffic director. Harriman. He deemed that with the the traffic business taken from his control and placed in the hands of Stubbs in Chicago, the "place originally attractive was much less so."

FOR OUR RURAL READERS

A FEW ITEMS THAT WILL INTEREST PEOPLE ON THE FARM

Greatest Trade Year in History—This Year's Walnut Crop—Notice to Hop Growers—Good Blood Pays—Etc.

The "biggest pumpkin yet" is reported at Willows. It weighed ninety-two pounds.

A Sacramento man picked a cluster of grapes that weighed seven and a quarter pounds.

In the Santa Maria country the grain growers are building sheds, covering their grain with tarpaulins, straw in fact anything to protect it from the fall rains, for the labor troubles have prevented any shipment of beans and have materially lessened those of grain.

Anthrax is prevalent among some of the cattle ranges near San Jose on one ranch alone eight animals having died of the terrible disease. In addition to these, a man, a brother of the owner of the ranch, died under conditions that look very much like anthrax, for in skinning one of the animals that had died he became inoculated with the disease, which proved fatal. Every precaution is being taken to prevent the spread of the disease.

Better Culture, Better Profits

A. R. Wiese, a representative of one of the largest beet seed houses in Germany, while in Mt. Clemens, Mich., recently expressed himself as follows to the Monitor of that town:

"You are at the beginning of beet growing in this country, although in sugar making the best of your mills are equaled nowhere. In growing beets you have a lot to learn. For instance, you get eight to fourteen tons from an acre. In Germany you get an average of eighteen tons. You get twelve to fourteen per cent. We get an average of eighteen to twenty per cent. There is an immense difference between ten tons and twelve per cent, and eighteen tons and eighteen per cent. The better the culture the better the profits.—L. A. Herald.

Greatest Trade Year in History

The monthly summary of commerce and finance issued by the Bureau of Statistics of the United States Treasury Department, gives details of imports and exports for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1901, showing that this last fiscal year ranks commercially as the greatest epoch in the history of the United States. The exports of the principal agricultural products, mainly breadstuffs, provisions and cotton, show an increase over last year of $101,503,183, and over 1899 of $149,442,247. The excess of exports over imports, or balance of trade in our favor, was $605,082,541, being $120,000,000 greater than for 1900, and the fourth year in succession showing a like balance of more than half a billion dollars, and there is a fair prospect for continued increase.

This Year's Walnut Crop

Various reports agree substantially in estimating this year's walnut crop at 600 carloads, an increase of nearly seventy-five carloads over last year. And yet a normal crop would be at least 900 carloads, for there can be no doubt that one-third of the crop will be destroyed this year by the generally prevalent black blight. At the present time it appears that this serious loss is likely to continue indefinitely. Prof. Pierce, the government pathologist, presumably the most reliable and capable expert in the country as to this walnut disease, expresses apprehension that it may be years before it can be controlled.—L. A. Herald.

Notice to Hop Growers

W. E. Loydal, secretary of the State Hop Growers' Association, has issued a circular warning ranchers that the crop is short this year. The brewing business of the United States has increased so that 200,000 bales are required annually in this country. Yet hops go begging at 10 cents. Hop growers are advised to hold for 15 cents a pound.

Novel Bull Fight

Paris.—A dispatch from Bayonne to the Figaro describes a bull fight that occurred there, in which an automobile replaced the horse of the picador. The novelty drew an enormous crowd, but seven bulls in succession turned tail and fled at the sight of the automobile.

M. Henri Deutsch of the Paris Aero Club, who established the prize for a steerable balloon, which M. Santos Dumont, the Brazilian aeronaut, made such a valiant effort to win, furnished the automobile and presided over the fight.

STOOD DEATH OFF.

E. B. Munday, a lawyer of Henrietta, Tex., once fouled a grave-digger. He says: "My brother was very low with malarial fever and jaundice. I persuaded him to try Electric Bitters, and he was soon much better, but continued their use until he was wholly cured. I am sure Electric Bitters saved his life." This remedy expels malarial, kills disease germs and purifies the blood; aids bowels, cures constipation, dyspepsia, nervous diseases, kidney troubles, female complaints; gives perfect health. Only 50¢ at C. W. Clapp's drug store.

ACTIVE SOLICITORS WANTED EVERYWHERE for "The Story of the Philippines" by Murat Halstead, commissioned by the Government as official historian to the War Department. The book was written in army camps at San Francisco, on the Pacific with General Merritt, in the hospitals at Honolulu, in Hong Kong, in the American trenches at Manila, in the insurgent camps with Aguinaldo, on the deck of the Olympia with Dewey, and in the rear of battle at the fall of Manila. Bonanza for agents. Beautiful original pictures taken by government photographers on the spot. Large book. Low prices. Big profits. Freight paid. Credit given. Drop all trashy unofficial war books. Outfit free. Address, F. T. Barber, Sec'y., Star Insurance Bldg., Chicago.

Bird-Shot For Tiger.

No use to hunt tigers with bird-shot. It doesn't hurt the tiger any and it's awfully risky for you.

Consumption is a tiger among diseases. It is stealthy—but once started it rapidly eats up the flesh and destroys the life. No use to go hunting it with ordinary food and medicine. That's only bird-shot. It still advances. Good heavy charges of Scott's Emulsion will stop the advance. The disease feels that.

Scott's Emulsion makes the body strong to resist. It soothes and toughens the lungs and sustains the strength until the disease wears itself out.

A NIGHT OF TERROR.

"Awful anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Burnham of Athens, Me., when the doctors said she would die from pneumonia before morning," writes Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night, but she begged for Dr. King's New Discovery, which had more than once saved her life, and cured her of Consumption. After taking she slept all night. Further use entirely cured her." This marvellous medicine is guaranteed to cure all Throat, Chest and Lung Diseases. Only 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at C. W. Clapp's drug store.

For the wrecking of a man's morals a "blind pig" is not in it with a "blind dog," says W. H. Hanson. And he has ground for his assertion. On Tuesday afternoon while the gentleman referred to was sedately riding his wheel on E. College street, a dog, which is blind in one eye, the property of our fellow townsman L. H. Souther, gave chase to a jack rabbit, and having his one eye on the fleeing rabbit he failed to see Mr. Hanson until he had run clean through the front wheel of his bicycle, breaking the rim in five places and throwing the rider of the wheel ignominiously into the dirt. Out of respect to our esteemed friend the Argus will refrain from chronicling the conversation which immediately ensued between the dog and the rider. "Souther pays the freight."

Major Geo. Robinson and wife of Pomona were the guests several days this week of their friend, Mrs. Alice Burpee. Major Robinson is the man who saved Secretary Seward from assassination at the time President Lincoln was shot. For his bravery on this occasion Major Robinson was presented by Congress with a medal, the intrinsic value of which exceeds $2000. The circumstances of the attempt on Seward's life were as follows:

About the same time that President Lincoln was shot, an attempt was made to assassinate Secretary Seward, who was in bed suffering from a fall. A stranger applied for admission, and being refused, said he had some medicine for the Secretary, and pushed by the servant. This slight disturbance aroused others in the house. The stranger started upstairs to the door of Mr. Seward's room on the third floor. Inside was the Secretary's daughter and George, now Major, Robinson, who was attending Mr. Seward. The assassin, who was a powerful man, struck Robinson as he dashed into the room. Robinson immediately grappled with him and a fierce struggle ensued, the stranger continually trying to reach the sick man, who was wounded seriously in the face and neck, and fell from the bed to the floor. Then seeing that the whole house was aroused, the assassin fled down stairs, stabbing Major Seward, eldest son of the Secretary, and then, like Booth, he mounted a waiting horse and galloped off.

NOTICE TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: Every person who wilfully and maliciously injures, tears down or destroys any letter box, pillar box, or other receptacle established by the Postmaster-General for the safe deposit of matter for the mail or for delivery * * * shall for every such offence be punished by a fine of not less than $100 and not more than $1000, or by imprisonment for not less than one year nor more than three. U. S. Rev. Statutes Sec. 3869.

Any person who shall steal the mail, or steal or take from or out of any mail or post office, branch post office, or other authorized depository for mail matter, any letter or packet * * * shall be punishable by imprisonment at hard labor for not less than one year and not more than five years. Post office lock boxes are for the exclusive use of the renters and any unauthorized person injuring, tampering with, or removing mail from such boxes does so in violation of the law which provides the above severe penalties. Intermeddling with the boxes of others will not be tolerated and parents are respectfully requested to instruct the children not to interfere with any box which does not contain mail for them.

"It Sounds Well."

"Sound without sense is mere noise." The author of this aphorism has escaped our remembrance, but the truth it contains is too real to be overlooked. Few may be aware of the power of sound, when its tones are natural and agreeable to the human ear. "Mother Goose's melodies," without a particle of sentiment, have come down to us from one hundred and fifty years ago, when they were framed for the entertainment of the little ones of the nursery by a mother who had about a dozen of her own children and about the same number of a former wife to care for. We well remember "Ding, dong, bell, poor pussie's in the well;" how our sympathies were awakened against "Johnnie Green, who put her in;" and how glad we were that "Johnnie Stout pulled her out." This is "sound" that has soothed many a little pilgrim to the land of Nod, and for its leg aches after running its miles of everywhere through the day has furnished the sweetest of sleep.

But has sound reached its limit with childhood? Just watch an Ingersoll delivering himself of his favorite lecture, "the mistakes of Moses." Large numbers of his audience are not yet familiar with the English tongue, yet are applauding his fine senseless sounds, his inimitable elocution. When but a small boy we remember the matchless elocution of the sainted Dr. Proal of Trinity church, New York. Too young to remember his subject when preaching, we listened perfectly enchanted as he read the prayers of the church and other parts of the service, no drawl or "holy tone" assumed, but the sweet accents of which that noble service is worthy: so natural, so enjoying, first to the ear and then to the heart.

But even religious cadencies are not without a seductive power at times, just as appearances may often hide internal defects. Says an able writer, "People often are carried away by the mere sound of words." Many an error has slipped into acceptance because of its tone charmed with its accent its sense escaped criticism.

Bishop Andrews says on one occasion he had preached a missionary sermon that evidently had deeply impressed his audience (probably of colored brethren) when he called upon one of the local preachers to close with prayer, who thus delivered himself, "O Lord, hang our jaws on the hinges of heaven: our tongues on the root of salvation, and we'll mount the milk white horse of the gospel and sail away to Galilee." Amid omens and outcries, says the bishop, the transported and enraptured congregation gave witness to the power of sound. But says an ancient minister of the gospel, "I speak as to wise men, judge ye what I say." So let "sound and sense" combine and thus, challenged, we may hear with safety and profit.
